VI- Reading Comprehension (110 marks)

Read the following passage and answer the questions below:

Research suggests that walking may not make you a genius but it will improve your attention and concentration and help your mood, well-being and even your physical health.

Regular physical exercise such as walking has been shown to help improve both mental and physical health. Certainly, the many physical health benefits of regular exercise are well known and researched. Ongoing regular exercise can improve heart performance, lead to more weight loss, and boost metabolism, the process by which the body changes food into energy. Research has found that regular exercise lowers anxiety, depression, stress and concentration.

Yet, even with all these wonderful benefits of regular exercise, the vast majority do not meet even minimal recommended amount of exercise. There are a variety of reasons for this lack of exercise including time pressures and lack of commitment to do so. This is one reason why walking is such an important exercise for most people.

Many may not afford the time energy and money to join a health club or gym or perhaps participate in exercise activities that are harder to do. Many sports, which are skill based, may result in injury, and cost a lot of money. Walking is perfect since you can do it anywhere and at any time and it doesn't need special equipment. Most of us can do walk and must find a way to make that happen.

One helpful way to improve walking is to always wear a pedometer, an instrument that calculates the distance travelled on foot by recording the number of steps taken. They provide feedback on your walking progress and most professionals suggest aiming for 10,000 steps per day. This translates into about 8 km of walking. A pedometer is a great motivator since it gives you an accurate description of your exercise activity .Walking may be long or short but as long as you keep your body, you will accumulate more steps. Therefore, you'll likely notice that your thinking is clearer , you are more attentive, happier, and you'll lose some weight and have a good shape. 344

VII - SUMMARY MAKING (60 Marks)

- Read the following passage, then do as required: (4X15= 60 Marks)

I'm surprised that you seem to find no fault at all with computers. I quite agree with you that they are excellent means of entertainment and a valuable source of information. But you seem to forget that they have also become a source of addiction to many children. A lot of mothers nowadays complain about the fact that their children have become so obsessed with their computers and the Internet that they lose contact with their friends and so grow lonely. Besides, their health is affected as they spend long hours sitting in front of the screen. Their eyes hurt and their backs ache. In addition to that they become less performing at school because of this time consuming activity. They don' find time to do their homework well or to do some reading. Apart from that using the Internet for a long time may lead to the impoverishment of young pupil's language skills because the language used on the Internet is not only full of mistakes but it often consists of abbreviations and unfinished sentences , which doesn't help young peoples to improve their learning.

In a paragraph of FOUR sentences ONLY , summarise and paraphrase the previous passage in an answer to the following question:

Why are some mothers against the overuse of computers by children?
