Read the following passage, and then answer the questions below:

A young person wants to go around with his friends with whom he likes to do things. But there are some rules about free time that help keep the young man safe when he is out and about.

It is very important to know where the young man is going, and who with? As the young man gets older, the parents can watch over their son and his activities less. Getting to know the young man's friends shows him that his parents understand how important his friendships are. One way to do this is to encourage the young man to have friends over and give a space in the home to provide meals, snacks and drinks. However, the young man needs to be good enough to be responsible for keeping the house as clean and tidy as it was before the get together.

Another point is that some of the activities, which the young man might be interested in, cost money, so we should think of how often and how much money he will be allowed to spend in order to let him learn the good ways for spending it.

Time, of course, is so important to take care of. Sometimes, the young man wants to spend time by himself, not doing very much. Solo free time is fine if it is balanced and spent with friends and family. It is also OK. For the young man to feel bored because this feeling motivates him to find something creative or new to fill his time. Solo free time is as valuable as any other time.
